About Me!

Who?

My name is Robert Hogarth, I'm a Digital Media artist / content creator who loves soaking in everything creative as well as trying my hand at making my own creative works.

What?

I like to work with a variety of different mediums including Vector Art, Pixel Art, Photography, Digital Illustration, Digital Compositing and Animation.

When?

My first experience with creating digital artwork was at the young age of 6 when my family got their first computer (a 286 with Windows 3.1), since then I've continued building my skills through self-teaching and study.

Where?

I'm currently based in Melbourne Australia, but have worked as a Media Lecturer in regional South Australia and studied Photography/Design and Web Development through New Zealand institutions.

How?

I create work using a variety of programs including the usual suspects like Photoshop, After Effects and Flash, open source software like Inkscape and GIMP, and some more unusual programs (like using the Vector capabilities of the MS Office Suite).

Why?

Because it makes me happy!  And I love creating things that might make other people happy too.
